Proteins are assembled from amino acids using information encoded in genes. Each protein has its own unique amino acid sequence that is specified by the nucleotide sequence of the gene encoding this protein. The genetic code is a set of three-nucleotide sets called codons and each three-nucleotide combination designates an amino acid, for example AUG (adenine-uracil-guanine) is the code for ...

I apologize for the length of this quote. I think it is only fair to give Dr. Wald ample time and space for his views to be expressed. [The following is] transcribed directly from his paper "The Origin of Life," which appeared in the August 1954 (pages 44-53) issue of Scientific American.. Any mistakes of transcription are of course mine.

Aging is associated with a decline in mitochondrial function and the accumulation of abnormal mitochondria. However, the precise mechanisms by which aging promotes these mitochondrial alterations and the role of the latter in aging are still not fully understood. Mitochondrial dynamics is a key process regulating mitochondrial function and quality.

Our knowledge of genetic variations has been so profoundly influenced by Mendelian genetics that it is difficult to speculate about the ways in which our thinking will need to change with further insights into genomics. We have far to go in teasing apart the multiple variables of complex traits and diseases, the relationships between hereditary, somatic and environmental factors, and in making ...
