Rotor imbalance is the most common cause of machine vibration. In practice, rotors can never be balanced perfectly owing to manufacturing errors such as porosity in casting, non-uniform density of materials, manufacturing tolerances, and gain or loss of material during operation.

A smart experimental setup for vibration measurement and

In-service stator winding failures on deep well pump induction motors [Libya]: Water was circulated round the pump motor by an elementary centrifugal pump - with water being drawn in along the axis of the rotor and pumped out towards one stator end winding by centrifugal action through four holes placed around the rotor shaft. The spray action, rather similar to that of a garden water ...

The static compression ratio of an internal combustion engine or external combustion engine is a value that represents the ratio of the volume of its combustion chamber from its largest capacity to its smallest capacity. It is a fundamental specification for many common combustion engines. In a piston engine, it is the ratio between the volume of the cylinder and combustion chamber when the ...

Condition monitoring (or, colloquially, CM) is the process of monitoring a parameter of condition in machinery (vibration, temperature etc.), in order to identify a significant change which is indicative of a developing fault. It is a major component of predictive maintenance. The use of condition monitoring allows maintenance to be scheduled, or other actions to be taken to prevent ...

Not as lucky as Shelley. My â€™05 Tundra has the injection pump problem at 108,000. Itâ€™s in limp mode right now. Estimated cost is $1,894 (parts and labor) from the dealership, but they are giving me only 12,000 of warranty, although I wanted to keep the truck longer.
